DO YOU GET UP

WITH A LAME BACK?

Kidney Trouble Makes You Miserable.

Almost everybody who reads the newspapers is sure to know of the wonderful cures made by Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney, liver and bladder remedy.

It is the great medical triumph of the nineteenth century; discovered after years of scientific research by Dr. Kilmer, the eminent kidney and bladder specialist, and is wonderfully successful in promptly curing lame back, kidney, bladder, uric acid troubles and Bright's Disease, which is the worst form of kidney trouble.

Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root is not recommended for everything but if you have kidney, liver or bladder trouble it will be found just the remedy you need. It has been tested in so many ways, in hospital work, in private practice, among the helpless poor to purchase relief and has proved so successful in every case that a special arrangement has been made by which all readers of this paper who have not already tried it, may have a sample bottle sent free by mail, also a book telling more about Swamp-Root and how to find out if you have kidney or bladder trouble.

When writing mention reading this generous offer in this paper and send your address to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Birmingham, N. Y. The regular fifty cent and dollar sizes are sold by all good druggists.

THE GALLUP FAMILY

AN EVENING OF ONE SIDED TEARS AND LAMENTATIONS.

Mrs. Gallup Gives Her Silent Hand Some Instructions and Advice About Her Own Funeral and the Wife That Will Succeed Her.

(Copyright, 1900, by C. D. Lewis.)

Mr. Gallup had gone down town to get supper to hear the political news, and it was 9 o'clock when he got back home. He had left Mrs. Gallup clearing away the dishes and singing "Happy Day," but when he returned she was lying on the lounge with her eyes closed and the house quiet as a grave.

He sat down after a glance at the figure and laboriously untied his shoes and pried them off and then picked up the family almanac to see what time the moon would be in her last quarter. Ten minutes passed, and Mrs. Gallup uttered a long drawn sigh. Two minutes later she groaned. A minute after the groan, as Mrs. Gallup had paid no attention to her, she sat up and said:

"Samuel, you've come here just in time. I was afraid I'd have to go with out bidding you goodby, but you are here. You hadn't been gone from the house ten minutes when I went to carry the milk down cellar. I wasn't thinking of death or anything of that sort when all of a sudden I heard a voice saying, 'Get ready to go away and become an angel.' You may tell me, Samuel, that it was the vinegar barrel working or that it was a gurgling from the soft

"Mrs. Roedecker says you'll probably marry a young man. I'll probably look for a widow with as many as five cows, but I don't go to find no fault in either case. On the contrary, I kinder pity you. Second wives allus snash and break and bust things, and if you say anything they'll sass back and pull hair. You'll be rid of me and my troubles, Samuel, but there'll be times when you'll sit down on the wash bench out doors and wish I was back. Yes, you'll acknowledge to yourself that I was hardworkin' and savin' and that I was no hand to gad about, but I'll be an angel, and you'll hev to plug along the best you kin without me. That's all, Samuel, and I will now die and hev it over with."

She stretched out on the lounge and folded her hands and closed her eyes. For ten minutes there was silence. Then Mr. Gallup yawned again, looked around and saw her there, and as he rose up to wind the clock and go to bed he observed:

"You'd better turn the cat outdoors and see if the kitchen window is fastened up."

A FAMOUS LIGHTHOUSE.

Tillamook Rock, at the Mouth of the Columbia River.

The most famous lighthouse on the Pacific coast is that of Tillamook rock, 70 miles south of the mouth of the Columbia river, Oregon. The rock is 92 feet above the sea, yet at the time Mr. Lord made one of his photographs a wave was breaking through a crevasse and falling six feet higher than the summit. On this day it was too rough for the Columbian's boat to make a landing. Coal for the station had to be hoisted in net slings, and the keeper had to be lowered in a cage or basket and, suspended in midair over the sea, report on the condition of himself and his assistants, as they were short of provisions, most of the supply having been destroyed during a storm.

For ten minutes there was silence. Then Mr. Gallup yawned again, looked around and saw her there, and as he rose up to wind the clock and go to bed he observed:

"You'd better turn the cat outdoors and see if the kitchen window is fastened up."

DR. PIERCE'S GOLDEN MEDICAL DISCOVERY

"I have been thinking of writing to you for some time," writes Mrs. W. D. Benson, of Maxton, Robeson Co., N. C., "to let you know what a wonderful thing Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery did for my little boy. He was taken with indigestion when he was a year and a half old, and he was under the doctor's treatment for five long years. We spent all we made for doctor's bills, and it did no good. He could not eat anything but a little milk and cracker, and sometimes even this would make him sick, and he got very weak; could not sit up all day, and I gave up all hope of his ever getting any better. Looking over one of your books I noticed Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery recommended for indigestion. We bought some and gave to our boy. Two bottles of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery cured him. He is well as can be, and can eat anything that he wants and does not hurt him. He has not been sick a day since, and it has been three years since he took your medicine. I pray that God will always bless you and your medicine."

Two Points of Difference.

The difference between the cow and the milkman," said the gentleman with a rare memory for jests, "is that the cow gives pure milk."

"There is another difference," retorted the milkman—"the cow doesn't give credit."—Indianapolis Press.

Might and right do differ frightfully from hour to hour, but give them centuries to try it in they are found to be identical.—Carlyle.

Pleasure once tasted satisfies less than the desire experienced for it torments.

"As to burying me in the back yard, of course you kin do as you think best. In one way it will save you $5, and in another it'll take up ground for cabbage. You'll marry ag'in, of course, and your second wife will want a hammock out under the trees. Mebbe she'll object to my grave. If I was your second wife, I wouldn't object to your first wife's grave, but I'm different from most women. You'd better think the thing over pretty seriously. And there's another thing, Samuel. A long time ago I told you that if you ever got married ag'in I'd haunt you. I was mad and said more'n I ought to. Of course I could come back as a ghost and roost on the footboard of the bed and keep you awake nights, and I could hide down cellar and sneer you most to death when you come down after elder, but I'm not that kind of woman. Right here and now I want to tell you that I'll never haunt you nor your second wife. Don't you think I'm pretty good, Samuel?"

Mr. Gallup had finished the pitchfork testimonial and struck one where a man had been blown up with a stump, and he was so interested that he didn't hear her question. She wept for three or four minutes and then said:

"No, don't go to any unnecessary expense to lay away my mortal remains, Samuel. As my spirit will be flyin' around in heaven, it won't make no great difference about my body. When Mrs. Thompson died, she wanted a funeral to cost $250, but I'm not Mrs. Thompson. You'll marry again, of course, and you'll need all your money to flam out with. Second wives allus snash. Yours will want a new dishpan, new curtains, new knives and forks and as many as three new tablecloths the very first thing. Speakin' of tablecloths, Samuel, I've made the last one last seven years. I don't expect any praise for it, but when your second wife shakes one all to pieces in six months you'll see a difference. What kind of a second wife are you goin' to marry, Samuel? You needn't be afraid to tell me, for there isn't a jealous hair in my head. Will she be old or young?"

Mr. Gallup yawned and stretched and thrust out his legs, but he had nothing to say.

"Mrs. Roedecker says you'll probably marry a young man. I'll probably look for a widow with as many as five cows, but I don't go to find no fault in either case. On the contrary, I kinder pity you. VEGETABLES.

Why Are Some Vulgar and Others Aristocratic?

Why do we respect some vegetables and despise others? The bean is a graceful, confiding, engaging vine, but you never can put beans into poetry or into the highest kind of prose. There is no dignity in the bean.

Corn—which in my garden grows alongside the bean, and so far as I can see, with no suggestion of superiority—is, however, the child of prose. It waves in all literature. But mix it with beans, and its high tone is gone. Sweetish as vulgar; it is the bean in it. The bean is a vulgar vegetable, without culture or any flavor of high society among vegetables.

Then there is the cucumber, like so many people, good for nothing when it is ripe, and the wildness has gone out of it. How inferior to the melon, which grows upon a similar vine. The cucumber is a sort of low comedian in a company where the melon is a minor gentleman.

The lettuce is to me a most interesting study. Lettuce is like conversation; it must be fresh and crisp, so sparkling that you scarcely notice the bitter in it. Lettuce, like most talkers, though, is apt to run rapidly to seed.

Blessed is that sort which comes to a head, and so remains like a few people I know—growing more solid and satisfactory and tender and whiter at the center.

Lettuce, like conversation, requires a good deal of oil, to avoid friction and keep the company smooth; a pinch of Attie salt, a dash of pepper, mustard and vinegar, but so mixed that you will notice no sharp contrasts, and a trifle of sugar.

I feel that I am in the best society when I am with lettuce. It is in the most select vegetable circle.—Charles Dudley Warner in "My Summer in a Garden."

FOLDED TRANSFERS.

They Increase a Conductor's Work and Are Trying to His Temper.

"Some people have no sympathy for street car conductors," said one of their number after he had received a peculiarly lively time in making change and giving and collecting transfers, says the New York Times.

"Now," continued the conductor, "there is one little matter that would save us lots of trouble if the people would only bear it in mind, and that is the way they hand in their transfers."

"Some men and a few women know enough to hand us the little strips of paper just as they receive them—that is, spread out in such a way that we can glance at them, see that they are all right and then place them with the package already collected. The majority of people don't do this, and as a rule the women are the worst of the lot."

"When a woman gets a transfer, she folds it up into as small a space as possible and then stows it away in her purse. When the time comes to collect this from her, she fishes the wad of paper out of the purse, hands it to the conductor and sits back in her seat content with what she has done."

"The conductor has to unfold this piece of paper to see if it is really the proper transfer. This takes time, and when there are a dozen women on the car all doing the same thing the poor conductor has more than he can do to keep his temper. Men as a rule don't fold their transfers, but content themselves with shoving the slips into their pockets and then producing a crumpled piece of paper when it is called for, tossing it to the conductor, who has to smooth it into shape."

"The same people would never think of handing in a railroad or theater ticket in the same way."

Enjoyable.

Tess—How did you enjoy yourself at her wedding?

Jess—Very much. Her gown was a wretched bad fit, and everybody was remarking how poor the presents were.

How We Use Up Our Forests.

It is estimated that it takes twenty-two acres of spruce land to furnish enough wood pulp paper to run a large metropolitan daily for two days. The writer makes this statement to deplore the time, when, at this rate, our forests will entirely disappear, and paper be as scarce and dear as it was before wood pulp was invented. Meantime, the art of printing continues in full force, because there are many truths the world should know; among others, that Hosteter's Stomach Bitters is a cure for all diseases of the stomach, such as dyspepsia, indigestion, constipation, biliousness, insomnia, nervousness. There is no need of anyone to suffer from these ailments, as this famous medicine has been the standard remedy of the American people for fifty years, and a cure is sure to follow its steady use. Do not accept a substitute. The genuine has a Private Revenue Stamp over the neck of bottle.

ACCIDENT ON THE RAIL.

A Section Hand Has An Arm Broken.

P. Boccolli, one of the section crew of the California Northwestern Railway with headquarters at this place, was run over by a hand-car near Madrone station, Saturday afternoon, and had his left arm broken and horribly mangled. The accident happened while the section crew were gathering up scraps alongside the road. To the handcar was attached a push-car, a piece of board nailed to both cars acting as a coupling. In passing from one car to another Boccolli stepped upon this piece of board, which gave way, and he was precipitated beneath the push-car, the wheels of which passed over his left arm, mutilating it in a dreadful manner.

Section Boss Ahern, who had charge of the crew, immediately stopped the hand-car and the injured man was tenderly picked up and brought into town and Drs. Davis and Walliser were sent for. The doctors attended to Boccolli's injured arm and on Sunday he was taken to St. Mary's Hospital, San Francisco.

At latest accounts Boccolli, under the care of the surgeon's of the hospital, is getting along nicely, and if blood-poisoning does not set in the surgeons will not only be able to save his life but the arm as well. Mr. Boccolli is a brother of Mrs. S. Ciucci and Mrs. Henry Castagnasso of this place.

The Grand Jury.

The following have been selected as Grand Jurors for the year 1900: Henry G. Hahman, Thomas B. Tuomey, David Hetzel, D. N. Craig, W. H. Grove, Franklin Watriss, W. S. DeTurk, M. V. B. Hooten, John N. Dowdall, N. E. Marcell, Dana B. Bremner, Rayford Peterson, J. L. Winans, George O. Campbell, A. J. Atchinson, Alex. Ragle, Robert A. Forsyth, Granville S. Harris, Wm. S. Vaughan.

Of the nineteen four are residents of this valley. Henry G. Hahman of Santa Rosa was appointed foreman of the jury by Judge Burnett.

From Affluence to Poverty.

Mrs. Wilson, for a number of years a resident of Agua Caliente, was taken to the County Hospital by Constable Ohm Wednesday. A few years ago Mrs. Wilson inherited $40,000 from a rich estate in San Francisco.

THRILLING ESCAPE.

Man and Horse Almost Under the Wheels of a Locomotive.

Wm. Loftos of the firm of Collins & Loftos, proprietors of the American Livery Stable, Petaluma, came near losing his life Sunday near the same spot where ex-City Marshal Bloom was ran over and killed about twelve years ago. As the 4:10 Sunday afternoon train was coming into Petaluma, a spirited horse that Mr. Loftos was driving became fractious and attempted to cross the track in front of the on-rushing train, which was some forty or fifty yards distant. While in the center of the track the animal fell and Mr. Loftos was thrown directly across the rails. Everybody present expected to see a dreadful catastrophe, but engineer Manning by applying the air brakes and using a cool head stopped the locomotive at the very instant when the eye witnesses of the accident expected to see horse and driver ground into atoms. The cowcatcher was within fifteen or twenty feet of the prostrate man when the train was brought to a standstill with a jerk that startled the passengers. Mr. Loftos escaped with a few slight bruises only, but he passed through an experience that he will not forget as long as he lives.

Board of City Trustees.

The meetings of the City Trustees are tame affairs now to what they were during the water agitation times. At last Wednesday evening's meeting, aside from the city officials and two reporters, there was but a solitary spectator—L. Quartaroli, the well known proprietor of the City Hotel—and he loomed up among the empty benches as big as an elephant.

Although Trustees Duhring, Davis, Ciucci, Holtz and Harris were all in their seats there was little or no business to transact and after passing the following bills the Trustees adjourned: D. H. Fussell, hauling gravel, $56.00; Howard Munfrey, labor, $1.50; Ranald McDonald, hauling gravel, $14.00; John N. Stademan, balance due on street sprinkling, $3.60; H. H. Granice, printing, $8.35; B. F. Campbell, $5.13. Total $88.58.

A PRETTY WEDDING.

Miss Elsie Greenleaf Appleton Becomes the Bride of Dr. Hartley Gottenberg.

The prettiest wedding of the season was that of Miss Elsie Greenleaf Appleton and Dr. Hartley Gottenberg, which was solemnized at the residence of the bride's parents on Broadway at high noon, Wednesday, October 17th. It was in every sense a pink and white wedding—beautiful roses, carnations, and pink and white ribbons being used abundantly. The walls of the parlor were banked with the choicest of roses and smilax while the ceiling was completely hidden from view with feathery sprays of bamboo and streamers of pink and white. Here and there were jardiniere of roses and carnations. The bay windows were hung with pink curtains, forming a pretty background. Potted palms and vases of white flowers lent beauty to the scene. A canopy of smilax and flowers was artistically arranged above the marriage bell, beneath which stood the young couple.

The ceremony was very impressively performed by Rev. C. D. Milliken, pastor of the Congregational church. The young bride looked very pretty in an exquisite gown of heavy white satin, the gift of a relative. The corsage was trimmed with a point lace bolero. She wore a tulle veil caught with orange blossoms and her bouquet was of white carnations. Miss Claire Hope attended the bride. She was costumed in a pale green silk and carried a bouquet of pink carnations. The best man was Mr. Bailey Birdsall.

Ice Cream Thieves.

An ice cream freezer containing three gallons of ice cream was stolen from the ladies of the Catholic Fair Monday night. The freezer had been carelessly left in the yard in the rear of Union Hall, where the Fair was being held, and fell an easy prey to thieves. The freezer was subsequently recovered minus the greater part of the ice cream.
